What To Expect:

Mentors will be paired up with one or two players to help guide and motivate them through the exercises and drill stations. Building social bridges during the sessions is also important. Engage them in conversations and encourage them to speak with you and their teammates. Keep them engaged by doing ball exercises while waiting in line.

The player's ages are five through 18 and have different abilities and challenges. This is why having one-on-one mentors is vital. Don't worry if the player doesn't stay on task. Come up with your own activity with the ball that might be enticing! If you need help, ask a coach!

Make sure you sign in so we can track your hours. Wear sneakers with good tread. Bring water in a reusable canteen. Safety first: Do not shoot or kick the ball around when on water breaks or any other time. The gym/field is crowded and our kids do not have quick reaction times to deflect unexpected errant balls.

Coaches help set up and manage the warm ups and break out sessions. They demonstrate the skills and drills and keep the stations running safely and smoothly. They help the mentors when needed.

Rutgers SAFTEY are offered periodically.

Fingerprinting: <https://uenroll.identogo.com> to set up an appointment.

Warm-ups and stretches

Ball handling and coordination drills

Dribbling, passing and shooting stations.
